Distance Education Disclosure

August 10, 2020

Dear Students,

Our national accrediting agency, ABHES, and the State of New Jersey, have granted AIMS Education temporary approval to offer the coursework in your program remotely through December 31, 2020.

In-person instruction has resumed on campus for labs and exams, but we will continue to offer theory classes online until further notice. Some lab hours may also be completed online via lab simulation software. All students must be prepared to attend labs or exams that are scheduled on campus.

During this time, AIMS Education will continue to provide effective education and training to all of our students in the remote learning environment. The faculty and school administration are working hard with state and national agencies to remain compliant with its teaching methods and delivery.

We will begin transitioning all classes back to in-person instruction at some point in the near future. However, if the pandemic worsens, it may be necessary to continue remote instruction, alter class schedules, cancel classes, or delay internships.

Further updates will be provided as needed.

Sincerely,

Academics Department
